Print test

Print this page before your planner, with the same printer and the same settings. Choose Actual size (or Scale 100%), never Fit to page.

Lay a bank or library card here

1. The card fits the box

Any bank, library or ID card is this size. If the card covers the box edge to edge, the printer is at actual size. If the box is smaller than the card, the printer shrank the page: change Fit to page to Actual size and print this again.

2. Each number is one inch

Check it against a ruler: the marks between are quarter inches, the same as the dots your planner is drawn on.

3. The dot grid

Your planner's dots, at their real size and grey, a quarter inch apart. Three dots span half an inch. If you can barely see them, ask for darker printing or turn off any toner-saving setting.

4. The finest lines

The thinnest lines in your planner, 0.3 point. All five should be solid from end to end. Gaps or missing lines mean the printer is saving toner.
